IT IS UNLAWFUL AND UNCONSTITUTIONAL

IF THEY CAN DO THIS TO THE [REDACTED]
THEY COULD DO IT TO YOU!

THE FACTS:

1. [REDACTED], rightful owners of the property to be auctioned here today, have been charged with certain statutory offenses. They have not yet been tried; therefore, they have not been convicted.
2. In this country, a person is supposed to be presumed innocent until proven guilty! The Fifth and Sixth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution guarantee to everyone a trial before a jury of his peers and protections against deprivation of his property without due process.
3. Unless and until a person is found guilty of criminal charges, the government has no authority to steal and dispose of his property. (What happens if they are found innocent -- and their property has already been sold?) THIS UNLAWFUL CONFISCATION AND SALE BY THE GOVERNMENT IS A CRIMINAL ACT!
4. Such a crime against ANY of us is a crime against ALL of us. IF CONSTITUTIONAL PROTECTIONS DO NOT APPLY TO ALL, THEY ARE UNAVAILABLE TO ANY!

WHO IS INVOLVED IN THIS SALE?

If this scenario were played out in some other arena of criminal activity, the list of players might read as follows:

The "law-enforcement officers" who "confiscated" the property could be the Mafia thugs who looted the victims' home at gunpoint.

The Director of the Department of Revenue could be the Mafia Godfather.

The Judge and Prosecutor could be the Godfather's Chief Lieutenants.

The Sheriff holding the sale could be the Mafia "Enforcer."

The Auctioneer could be "fencing" stolen property.

Anyone buying from the "fence" would be "receiving stolen property"!
